WITH ASHES ON THE FREE LIST

Refers to Cleveland as the Demo-Over a Hundred Years Old-The crats. Proper Protection is the Real Patriotism of the People.

Washington, March 26.-The consideration of the schedules of the tariff bill in detail for the purpose of amendment was preceded today by the recitation of the Lord's prayer by Chaplain Couden.

The house then went into committee of the whole, and the clerk was instructed to begin reading the bill.

Mr. Lanham (Dem., Tex.) asked if it would be in order, at this time, to move to strike out the enacting clause, which, he stated, if adopted, would operate as a rejection of the bill.

Chairman Sherman expressed the opinion that the motion was in order. The motion created temporary consternation in the Republican ranks, for there was not a quorum of the committee present, and it was apparent that a larger number of Democrats were in their seats than Republicans. Mr. Dingley, chairman of the ways and means committee, suggested that the motion be held in aboyance until some progress had been made in the reading of the bill, when there would be a larger attendance pressult. To press the motion now would result only in delaying consideration of the bill until a quorum could be obtained.

HE WAS SUAVE.

Mr. Lanham suavely stated that the motion expressed his antagenism to the bill, and he desired to press it to a vote now.

Mr. Daizeli (Rep., Pa.) said that the gentlemen on the other side had been clamoring for debate, and they knew that the motion for the process it to a vote now.

To this, Mr. Dingley made the point of order that the amendment related to the free list, and that that had not

Mr. Dalzell made the further point that congress could not confer such power on the secretary of the treasury; and in answer to questions stated that no such power was conferred by the bill upon the president in respect of oili upon the president in respect oi the reciprocity features.

Mr. Cooper (Dem. Tex.), suggested a substitute for Mr. Dockery's amendmen conferring the power upon the president, which Mr. Dockery said he was perfectly willing to accept, if it would meet the objection of the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Skinner, (Pop. N. C.), offered his half and half gold and silver coinstrugg throes the age scheme as an amendment, but it was perfectly willing to accept, if it would meet the objection of the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Dalzell—If does not meet it at all.

Mr. Richardson (Dem. Tex.)—Then the objection cannot be met and the gentleman does not want it met.

Mr. Dookerv said he had drawn the amendment but will have a summer of the bull upon the secretary of the treasury to susseend the prohibition against the importation of meat, cattle and hides into the United States under certain conditions.

The point of order was further discussed by Mayer. Richardson, McRae (Dem. Ark.), Tawney (Rep. Minn.), Ealiey (Dem. Tex.), and Dalzell (Rep. Ph.), in which Mr. Richardson said he feared that the objection of some members to the amendment was that they desired to protect frusts.

Mr. Balley said if the Remublicans would

"Don't laugh yet." Mr. Hepburn said;
"there is the sugar schedule, from which we expect to raise $50,000,000 of revenue. Five men on the other size may form a combination and without intending to do so, control the price of sugar, thereby compelling the secretary of the treasury to put that amicle on the free list. And so with pagard to wool. Free traders, thinking is should go on the free list, loight easily form a sham trust to concelling it to be placed on the free list, destroy that industry."

SIMPSON SURPRISED.

Mr. Simpson (Pop., Kan.) expressed his surprise at the objections of the Republicans to a vote on this amendment. It was apparent to him that they were much more concerned about the falling off of the revenue of the trusts than they were of those of the government. (Applause.)

Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.) said it was refreshing, absolutely refreshing, to witness the change of the attitude of the Democrats — and trusts. The only law ever passed against trusts was the act of 1890, recommended by a Republican president, passed by a Republican congress and opposed by Democrats. The late Democratic administration apparently approved the action of its attorney general, who refreed to cover out the lay wavers that WITH ASHES ON THE FREE LIST

THE CHIEF TROUBLE.

Mr. Newlands (Sil., Nev.) said the chief trouble was that half of the basic money had been stricker down, and he desired legislation against the parent trust, not its offspring and victims, which were striving to relieve somewhat the conditions under which the leable are suffering.

Mr. Bland (Dem., Mo.) said he was surprised at the effrontery of Republicans in asking the chair to decide the amendment out of order in violation of all parliamentary law. He asserted that the action of the Republicans, was in the interest of trusts.

amendment was not in order. From this decision Mr. Dockery appealed, but the chair was sustained on a division by a vote of 156 to 106.

Amendments proposed by Messrs. McRae. (Dem. Ark.), Cooper. (Dem. Tex.), and Robinson intended, as was Mr. Dockery's, to put articles controlled by trusts on the free list, or to reduce the duty, were also ruled out on the same ground.

Mr. Smith, (Dem. Ariz.), offered an

Mr. Dingley made the point that that was not only out of order but further proposed to reduce duties 50 per cent.
